Taking Care of the Roots

This year's theme, mulmunč?ałuk (Taking Care of the Roots), centres on the importance of the passing on of knowledge through family, friends, peers and culture.

Like a plant or a tree the roots need to be taken care of.
We must take only what we will use and we must nourish it.
We must give back by taking care.

*take care of the waters and oceans
take care of the land and everything on it take care of our air and sky
take care of each other*

Our mission is to inspire the growth of traditional and contemporary coastal carving arts through celebration, education and relationship building.

Artist Forum

The Artist Forum stimulates discourse on the transmission of knowledge as it relates to artistic practice. Guest Artists will reflect on their personal artistic journey and role in furthering the development of the coastal carving and weaving arts. The forum provides an opportunity for artists to network with each other and learn.

Edge Exhibit

The Edge Exhibit is a showcase of carved and weaved works from all corners of our art community. Witness the relationship between the carver, the weaver and the coast as you experience the vast variety of art styles from traditional to contemporary, innovative to whimsical.

This year's exhibit will feature Through Our Eyes: a place-based photovoice project that engaged youth from ʔaʔuuk*íʔaṭṭ territory (Opitsaht, Esowista, & Tofino) in photography and writing to foster intergenerational and cross-cultural knowledge exchange, artistic expression, and storytelling.

Located at The Shore Pier
368 Main Street
Tofino

Artist Talks & Film Screening

Join us for an evening with renowned Haida root weaver Isabel Rorick who will speak to the importance of passing down knowledge.

The film ʔaʔuuk*íʔaṭṭ Tla-o-qui-aht Dugout Canoe will be shown with an opportunity for discussion with canoe carver Joe Martin and Snuneymuxw-European filmmaker Steven Davies.

Film Screenings

Carving on the Edge Festival produced a series of films from 2020-2022 with filmmaker Claudia Medina and Host Gordon Dick. They will be screened on loop during exhibit opening hours.

Artist-led Tours

Saturday 10th @ 11am, 2pm & 5pm

Sunday 11th @ 11am & 2pm

Learn more about the traditions and techniques of west coast carving through an in-depth look at select works. Participants will have the opportunity to meet featured and guest artists as they present their art pieces on exhibit.

Drop-in Weaving

Have you ever been curious about cedar bark weaving? Drop-in to the exhibit on Monday or Tuesday and have the opportunity to try weaving for yourself. Weavers will be actively plying their craft and demonstrating their process for all to see.

Open Carving Area

The Open Carving Area is a space within the festival for carvers to set up and work on projects. All carvers are welcome to come and carve, share techniques and gather inspiration from fellow artists of all skill levels. Carvers will also have the opportunity to interact with members of the visiting public that are interested in learning more about carving. Simply arrive with your tools and materials and our Open Carving Area host will set you up with a space to carve. There will be some carving grade wood available if you need.

Tool Shed

The tool shed is the location at the festival for all things steel. Improve your relationship with wood by improving your relationship with steel! There will be sharpening demonstrations and a space for tool makers to ply their wares. If you're into tools then this is the place to be.

From 12pm-1pm Saturday & Sunday Gordon Dick will be demonstrating an array of sharpening techniques to keep your tools functional, well-maintained, and carving ready.

Talking Circle

The Talking Circle is a space to gather for one last time as the weekend comes to a close for artists, participants and cultural leaders to share their thoughts. This will be an opportunity for feedback, ideas for future festivals and to thank our volunteers and participants. Advance registration is required.

Naa'Waya'Sum Pole Viewing & Talk

This year the Carving On The Edge Festival is proud to partner with the Naa'Waya'Sum Coastal Indigenous Gardens, previously known as the Tofino Botanical Gardens. Naa'Waya'Sum refers to the passing of knowledge from generation to generation through observation and listening. The figures in the totem pole speak to this theme, specifically the relationship of grandparent to grandchild in traditional oral culture. Each crest in the carving represents a whole school of cultural teachings. In this way, the knowledge is shared for future generations.

The Naa'Waya'Sum pole, carved by Joe Martin, Gordon Dick, Robin Rorick, Robinson Cook, and Patrick Amos, was carved to mark the transition of the gardens and bring Nuu-Chah-Nulth teachings to the forefront. The pole hopes to inspire everyone from youth, locals and people from afar. The Naa'Waya'Sum Totem Pole will be available for viewing and open conversation with Joe Martin, lead carver on Friday 1-4pm.
